VALE PRINCE!

Hongkong's Royal Guest Departs.

A PEEP AT KOWLOON CITY

"Sorry He Couldn't Stay Longer."

WHAT SIR PAUL WILL DO.

It is pretty certain that most Hongkong folk, if they had gone through the strenuous day that confronted the Prince of Wales yesterday, if they had attended the Chinese banquet and danced for hours afterwards at the ball, would have been glad enough to be abroad this morning. Not so His Royal Highness. Seven o'clock found him landing from his Royal barge at Kowloon with Admiral Halsey and Sir Godfrey Thomas. Accompanied by H.R.H. the Governor and Mr. Eric Rice, the Prince and his party motored out to old Kowloon City where H.R.H. spent full an hour rambling over the hoary old fragments of ancient Chinese architecture. The people of Kowloon had heard that the Royal Visitor had come to see them after all and many of them were lining the roadway near the Star Ferry wharf when the Prince returned to his barge at about half past eight.

The Prince went aboard the "Renown" at twenty minutes to nine and precisely at nine o'clock the Royal cruiser began to slip its moorings. Meantime her escort, the "Durban", had got under way and was moving down the harbour. A few minutes after nine the great grey shape of the "Renown" began to slip past the buoy and to the staccato crack of the Japanese fireworks overhead was added the thunder of the Royal salute and the stentorian cheering of the navy men manning the warships. The mists still clung stubbornly to the summit of the Peak but the sun was definitely shining as the "Renown" glided through the smoke of the guns on her journey up the fairway. As she passed the four Japanese cruisers then drew in behind her and the six ships steamed out through Lyman in whatever may be the naval equivalent for single file.

It will be a sufficient reward for those who did the hard work and were responsible for the difficult details of organisation to know that Hongkong on Thursday night provided the Prince with one of the most memorable sights of his tour. Easily the best illuminations we have seen since we have left England—that is what one of H.R.H.'s personal staff was overheard to remark. And the Prince himself—those who saw him off at Blake Pier last night got the impression that he had thoroughly enjoyed himself. He told them that he regretted very much that he had not been able to stay with us longer.

Throughout his several tours, wherever he has gone, the Prince has been always mindful of the hard work, the worry and the trouble which a Royal visit spells for those who have to work out the details. It is his work to present a small souvenir to those personally responsible. On inquiry at Government House this morning it was found that no exception to his happy rule had been by H.R.H. at Hongkong. Several of the officials who have been most closely connected with him during his stay here were called up in turn last night for a brief chat and were presented by H.R.H. with a souvenir.

CHATER'S GIFT.

$50,000 FOR EX-SERVICE MEN.

PRINCE'S SUGGESTION FOLLOWED.

Sir Paul Chater, C.M.G., is to donate $50,000 to be utilised by the ex-service men of the Colony. This announcement was made this morning by the donor of the magnificent gift, to a China Mail reporter who called on Sir Paul at his offices. Thus is a considerable amount of public speculation satisfied.

Yesterday, during a ceremony at the Pavilion, Sir Paul asked for permission to erect a statue of His Royal Highness. The Prince graciously declined and suggested that some good work should be done for the Colony. When asked if the Prince had given any indication as to the lines this good work should follow, Sir Paul said he had. "His Royal Highness," he said "is heart and soul with the ex-service men and suggested that I should do something for them." I then made up my mind to give $50,000.

At present it is impossible to say how the money will be utilised, Sir Paul has first, at the Prince's suggestion, to confer with Brigadier General Macnaghten.

The China Mail would take upon itself the pleasant task, on behalf of the ex-service men, of publicly thanking Sir Paul for his magnificent generosity.

By the way, did you read the China Mail's open letter to the Prince on Thursday? It is the more interesting in the light of these new developments.

BOWEL COMPLAINT IN CHILDREN.

DURING the summer months the children are subject to disorders of the bowels and should receive the most careful attention. As soon as any unnatural looseness of the bowels is noticed Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy should be given. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

THE BALL.

A BRILLIANT FUNCTION.

PRINCE AS A DANCER.

The Colony's welcome to the Prince culminated last night in a ball at the Pavilion. Given by the entire community the function has never been equalled in brilliance in the history of the Colony. The delicately shaded lights of the Pavilion shed their soft glow on a scene of great animation and colour. The lights glinted from the scintillating jewels of the ladies and sparkled on the orders and medals worn by officers of both services and civilians. The streams of vehicles making their way to the Supreme Court where the cloak rooms were installed were sufficient to indicate that the ball was going to be a tremendous success. By ten o'clock the floors were crowded. Then there appeared on the dais the youthful figure of the Prince, clad in conventional evening dress and accompanied by H.R.H. the Governor. What a roar of cheering broke out! Then came the National Anthem; then another vociferation of welcome. Then he descended to the floor and danced with Lady Stubbs. Thereafter the dais saw little of the Prince. He was on the floor conversing with ladies and dancing. His partners included Mrs. Shenton, Miss Logan, Miss Thomas and Miss Darby. During his stay here the Prince has never looked happier. His face flushed with exercise, his formerly immaculate collar decidedly limp, he gave the impression that he was enjoying every minute. He showed a marked preference for fox trots and the spectators are in agreement that he is a fine dancer. The eighteenth real was honoured with his participation. The set in which he was dancing was surrounded by a dense crowd. "It must be embarrassing having to dance with so many looking on" was remarked more than once. The Prince however had forgotten them, he was too much occupied with the dance.

THE FRUIT SEASON.

DOVE complaint is sure to be prevalent during the fruit season. Be sure to keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand. It may save a life. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

THE FAREWELL.

But all good things have an ending. Shortly before 12.30 the music stopped and His Royal Highness came through his entrance on to the dais. The time for farewell had come. The cheers were hushed as the National Anthem crashed out followed by "God bless the Prince of Wales." This was roared up and sung. There was a throb of impassioned loyalty in the singing. Hongkong was saying its farewell to the heir to the great British Throne. More cheers, then "He's a jolly good fellow" was sung with the greatest heartiness—the Colony's farewell to the man.

The noise was not one bit abated as His Royal Highness disappeared through the door. Another crowd was waiting to see him drive away. More cheers and "He's a jolly good fellow" again. A lifted hat, a smile from a face flushed with enjoyment were the last impressions. Then the Prince was whirled away to Blake Pier where he went off in his barge to the "Renown." H.R.H. the Governor and Lady Stubbs, together with Capt. Neville and Mr. Eric Rice accompanied him to the Pier.

THE MUSIC.

The music was excellent in every way. Two bands were utilised, that of the "Renown" and the jazz band of the Hongkong Hotel. The latter was led by Mr. Will Hender. The programme provided for sixteen dances; almost three times that number were played at both bands met with unanimous calls for success. There was no official supper. The Hongkong Hotel had the catering in hand and saw to it in their usual way that nothing was wanting to make this important feature, a success. H.R.H. had supper in his private room. This was tastefully decorated in blue by the Hongkong Hotel who also supplied a special set of gold plate.

beginning of Holy Week, a week so devoutly observed in older days that in the 14th century even the least devout kept it by eating only bread with a little salt, and drank water
but once a day.In many Churches to-morrow pieces of palm will be blessed and distributed in remembrance of Our Lord's triumphal entry into Jerusalem
when the crowd made a carpet of palms for Him to ride over, and waved them rejoicing in the air, as they cried: "Hosanna to the son of David," the same crowd which in a few days would change its cry and shout "Crucify Him, Crucify!" The Collect sums up the teaching of the Epistle—that Jesus must be our Example of humility. Pride is the sin against which everyone has to fight and it is only by constantly thinking of the wonderful humility of Christ, by comparing ourselves with Him and not with other people, by dwelling on His voluntary sufferings, that we shall begin to feel our unworthiness. Only then shall we fall down in self abasement,
worshipping Him Whose humility
even found excuses for His murderers so that He cried out for our sins and their sin while the nails were yet
being driven into His sacred flesh,
"Father forgive them, for they know not what they do."The Gospel is one of the longest in the Church's Year, relating Our Lord's Passion from the early morning until He gave up the Ghost. A Gospel to move us with deep compassion, to prepare us for Holy Week, the one week in the year when as much of our thoughts and time as is possible, must be spent remembering the Agony of Gethsemane and the Cross.The week when He speaks to us as He did to His Disciples. "Can ye not watch with me one hour?" When we must remember that still He thirsts for the souls of men, still rich time that men deny Him a fresh thorn is added to His crown; but He can and does let us help, to share the burden of the Cross as did Simon of Cyrene. We think again of the beautiful legend of St. Veronica, the woman who watched Him from the crowd until she could bear it no larger and ran forward to wipe the sweat from His face and who was rewarded by having His image miraculously printed on her handkerchief. It was all the could give so little but it was the impulse of love and that is all He asks of us this Holy Week, love that shall try to share His sufferings with Him and without which we cannot rejoice with Him on Easter Day.The Church expects those who can to be present at Holy Communion
each day in Holy Week (except Good Friday when there is no celebration in the English Church), for she provides special Gospels and Epistles for each day.Thursday is called Maundy Thuriday, the day on which we commemorate the Institution of the Blessed Sacrament and the washing of the Disciples' feet by Our Saviour.
It is called Maundy because in a Roman Church (and our Church untilAN AMERICAN BANKRUPT.This New York broker has just failed. He owes a million and a half, but does not worry.This man says the Taylor murder was done by a Chinese.The Times gave an important position to the announcement that the Episcopal Conference of the diocese of Arkansas has adopted a resolution demanding the trial of Bishop William Brown for heresy, claiming that in his book "Communion and Christianity" the divinity of Christ is denied. Dr.
William Montgomery Brown is not Bishop of Arkansas, he resigned that see, after a stormy tenure of it, so long as 1912, and has since resided in a distant State. Before his resignation, and more swiftly after it, he seemed to be slipping from the Christian standpoint, he has now appeared as an opponent of the Faith, and even of Theism. In consideration of his permanent ill-health no attempt has hitherto been made to depose him from the ministry, nor has he asked for deposition, a way of return was charitably open. His latest book seems to have made action necessary, and that is what the paragraph in the Times indicates. It is not a case of action against a bishop by his diocese, he ceased long ago to administer a diocese and has done no work in the Church since his resignation. Deposition from the ministry, if it should follow the action of the diocese, will be only the formal recognition of an accomplished fact;
he has himself abandoned the ministry of the Church.From the Church Times we read:
"In the Divorce Court last week a Roman Catholic petitioner applied for judicial separation, on the ground of her husband's desertion and adultery.
Mr. Justice Hill, in pronouncing a decree of judicial separation, said that he did so with great reluctance as there was, in his opinion, nothing
more mischievous to public morality
than for persons to be separated in such circumstances instead of being divorced. We take leave to observe the expression of Mr. Justice Hill's personal opinion was impertinent in both senses of the word. He probably knows that Catholics, both Anglican and Roman, are precluded from applying for divorce, since they do not recognize divorce in the modern sense of dissolution of marriage. But they do recognize divorce in the old sense of separation a mensa et thoro. To censure, in effect, a petitioner for not doing that which her religion forbids is to exceed the office of a judge. We may also remind Mr. Justice Hill that it is very widely held that there is nothing
more mischievous to public morality
than the existence of the Court in which he sits."As already advertised in this paper, Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be rendered by a special choir in St. Peter's Church on Good Friday evening at 9.15 p.m. As the Church is small and a large congregation is expected, those who wish to guarantee their seats should send in their names immediately.For some time there has been a

PRINCE'S VISIT. CHINESE BANQUET. ORIENTAL SPLENDOR.

Skilled hands, practising a cunning art ages old, had transformed the usually drab and tawdry Taiping Theatre into a veritable Oriental wonderland last night when the Chinese community gave a banquet and staged a theatrical performance in honour of the Prince of Wales.

Outside the building, glowing arc lamps and delicate lanterns cast their light on a wealth of allegorical decoration, quaint historical figures garbed in robes of many colours, and the miniature tableaux which hid the high walls on either side of the road for a considerable distance. Over the main entrance, rising eighty feet above the street, towered a wonderful arch with a magnificent chandelier lit with over two hundred electric bulbs hanging inside from the mouth of a huge dragon's head. The passage leading into the theatre itself was lined with more gorgeous miniature scenes from Chinese folk lore and history. The banquet hall itself was a brilliant spectacle, rich silken hangings, handsome blackwood furniture, coloured fringes, pretty Chinese lanterns, and countless electric lights giving an effect of once beautiful and arresting. The Taiping Theatre last night was indeed an Oriental wonderland.

Over 350 were present, including 200 guests when the Prince, attired in conventional evening dress and wearing miniature of his decorations, arrived accompanied by the Hon. Mr. Lau Chu-pak who had received him at the door when he alighted from his motor car before a guard formed by King's men under Lieut. Humphreys.

The Prince evincing great interest in the wonderful decorations in the archway, Mr. Lau Chu-pak explained that two seemingly substantial pillars were really made of bamboo shavings knitted together with infinite patience and skill—a rare fine art known only to the Chinese and now fast decaying.

After acknowledging a cordial greeting in the banquet hall, the Prince retired to the "Dragon" Room furnished in blackwood and hung with scarlet silk embroidered with birds in gold. Emerging a few moments later he took his seat at a large centre table with a beautiful yellow silken covering displaying a wondrously embroidered dragon. On either side of the table two great lanterns hanging from the ceiling illuminated the Chinese characters "Welcome."

The Chairman (the Hon. Mr. Lau Chu-pak), had on his right H.E. the Governor (Sir R. E. Smith, K.C.M.G.). There were also seated at the principal table H.E. Sir Alexander Duff, K.C.B., H.E. the Governor of Macao (Senhor Correa da Silva), the Hon. Mr. Chou Shou-sen, H.E. the Chief Justice (Sir William Rees Davies), H.E. the General Officer Commanding the Forces in China (Major-General Sir John Fowler, K.C.M.G., C.B., D.S.O.), Vice-Admiral Sir L. Halsey, K.C.M.G., the Japanese Vice-Admiral, and Sir Robert Ho Tung.

At the two tables flanking the top table were—

The Japanese Admiral, Brig Gen. Woodroffe, D.S.O., the Bishop of Victoria (Rt. Rev. C. W. Dappay, D.D.), Bishop Pozzoni, Commodore W. Bowden-Smith, M.C., the Hon. Mr. J. H. Kemp, C.B.E., M.C., Sir Godfrey Thomas, the Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, M.C., Capt. the Hon. Piers Leahy, the Hon. Mr. T. L. Perkins and Mr. Ho Fook.

The Hon. Mr. Claud Severn, C.M.G., the Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax, Mr. J. W. Jamieson, C.M.G., the Hon. Sir Paul Chater, C.M.G., Mr. Justice H. H. J. Gompertz, the Hon. Mr. C. McI. Messer, Capt. Dudley North, the Hon. Mr. A. G. Stephen, Sir William Brunyate, K.C.M.G., Capt. the Hon. H. Meade, and Mr. Chou Su Ki.

Arranged by four leading Chinese restaurants, the banquet courses were as follows:—

Birds' Nest Soup
Fried Ganopua
Shark's Fin
Gold and Silver Pigeon Egg
Asparagus in Chicken Sauce
"Fishes Delight"
"Yee Foo" Noodles
Rice Mèlange
Almond Cream
Assorted Pastry.

The Prince, under expert tuition, speedily acquired the knack of manipulating chopsticks and was later pleased to accept a set from Mr. Lau Chu-pak for further practice on the way to Japan where the chopstick, of course, will be in greater use. During the meal he chatted with those about him, evincing keen interest in the Chinese gastronomy. In the course of his conversation with Mr. Lau Chu-pak, who was greatly impressed by what he later described as the Prince's "easy democracy" the royal guest complimented his hosts on the splendid entertainment. Before leaving he signed souvenir programmes for both Mr. Lau Chu-pak and Mr. Chou Shou-sen, the Chinese members of the Legislative Council.

During the evening toasts were honoured for "His Majesty the King," "The President of China," and "The Guest of the Evening." Naturally the last one was received with acclamation. The Chinese orchestra also played a spirited passage in honour of the sentiment expressed.

If the preliminaries of the entertainment, including a lively "overture" from the native orchestra, had intrigued the Prince, the scene disclosed when the many hooded curtain was swept aside frankly delighted him. Never before in Hongkong had a Chinese stage been more beautifully set—the scenery alone cost nearly $4,000, and the gorgeous silken costumes $17,000. The opening part, which was begun when the repeat was in progress, was devoted to a spectacular display in the course of which, amid the applause of the audience, bright silken scrolls were displayed with great ceremony and veneration proclaiming "Long Life to the King-Emperor," "Obedience to the Prince of Wales" and "Peace on Earth."

Then followed a play, a Chinese musical drama adapted and produced by the indefatigable Mr. R. H. Kotewall, under the title "The Maid of the Hills." Played by the celebrated Wan Kow Lok troupe, the performance excited general admiration, by the skill of the acting, the charm of the story and the splendour of the setting.

At the conclusion of the banquet the Prince departed amid as demonstration of loyalty. A quick motor drive along the Praya, with a fleeting glimpse of the harbour from the usually beautiful with red lanterns and white light bebecking the ships, brought him to the Pavilion and a scene vastly different from the oriental pageantry of the Taiping Theatre.

TIME.
"The Golden Age of China."

The story is best told in the words of the synopsis given with the programme as follows:—

For well nigh three years the young King has been seeking in vain for a Queen-Consort. Easy-going in other matters, His Majesty is fastidious in the choice of his "life-companion." He avows that she must not only excel in beauty, but also be accomplished, sweet-tempered and endowed with all womanly virtues. This explains why His Majesty is still in the single state at the advanced age of nineteen. One night he has a dream: he dreams that he is chasing a pair of sportive butterflies to a flower-girded brook, by the side of which sits a fair maiden washing clothes; a glance tells him that at last he has found his ideal.

The failure to discover in real life the "Dream-Maiden" in spite of all efforts, begins to tell on the royal health; and in order to divert His Majesty's thoughts, his principal advisers suggest that he make a tour, incognito, through the metropolitan province. He sets forth with his trusted Comptroller of the Royal Academy, Liu Shang, in the guise of two well-to-do merchants. One day they wander into a quiet village set on a hill. The sweet babble of a running brook quickens their footsteps onward, for they feel thirsty. They come upon a girl washing clothes at the brook, the far side of which is fringed by rows of peach-trees in blossom. Startled by the sound of footsteps she springs to her feet, and there stands in flesh and blood, in the blooming glory of girlhood, the King's "Dream-Maiden!" The girl, too, seems to have seen His Majesty before—where and when she cannot tell. This mutual feeling of affinity quickly breaks down the conventional barrier, while the engaging manner of the young man immediately wins over the girl's parents. Before the King departs, he promises to return soon to take the girl and her parents to the Capital; or should he be unable to come himself, to send his friend Liu Shang to do so.

Less than a month afterwards—no impatient is His Majesty—he commissions Liu Shang to bring him his

"Maid of the Hills." "See to it," says he, "that our instructions are carried out to the letter! As thou knowest, she is as beautiful as the moon-lit rose, as accomplished as Wen-ki of yore as sweet-tempered as the gentle dew, but—We have not had an opportunity of knowing the real state of her heart towards Us, as a man, and not as the World's Ruler. Now it is thy mission to aid Us in putting her to the test. Let Our plan not miscarry!" Liu Shang repairs to Brook Farm in his old disguise of a merchant, and brings the family to the metropolitan city. Arriving late in the evening he takes them to his house, informing them that it will be too late to go into the city where the girl's fiancé lives, and urging them to be his guests for the night. He and his wife take them over their beautiful garden wherein they improvise a variety entertainment in honour of the humble folk who, though they know it not, are to be raised to such exalted positions on the morrow. In the midst of the feast an officer of the Court, accompanied by two Palace-attendants, arrives with a Royal Edict commanding the presence of the Maid at a royal audience. The officer adds that the Son of Heaven, having heard of her personal qualities, has signified His Royal pleasure to appoint her to be Queen-Consort. She pleads in vain the sacredness of her pledged word, and in vain she protests her mean origin and unworthiness for Court life. She is led away.

Ushered into the Royal Presence, in the Northern Audience-Hall, through ranks of civil and military officials of high standing, the poor girl is made to kneel before the throne. Neither persuasion, nor alluring prospects, nor threats succeed in detaching her from her path of faithfulness and constancy. "There are," she tearfully pleads, "innumerable ladies of high birth, and there are, also, millions of young girls under the sway of your Majesty. Why must the All Highest condescend to look upon a lowly country-maid? If it be your Majesty's pleasure to enforce thy command, thy wretched servant is prepared—nay, she will be happy—to give up her life in order to be true to the humble merchant to whom she has given her word of honour." Being satisfied, the King commands her to look up and, lo! sitting on the Dragon Throne is her humble merchant of the metropolis! "My beloved advisers," says His Majesty, addressing his officials, "it has taken Us a long time to find a suitable occupant of the Phoenix Throne. In the course of Our tour it had been the pleasure of Heaven, to guide Our footsteps to Brook Farm where we met the little girl now standing before Us. At that time we knew that she completely conformed to the standard of excellence set by Us, but we had no means of testing her heart. Hence this little play just enacted before Us. We now know—had let the whole world forthwith know—that not only is she beautiful, gentle and accomplished, but she is as true and constant as the Sun. Verily, 'the allurement of untold wealth cannot change her heart; death-dealing weapons cannot destroy her constancy.' Let us offer our profound thanks to Heaven and to Our Departed Sires for having given us, as the Mother of the Kingdom this little maid—this Maid of the Hills."

THE RACE MEETING.

SPLENDID AFTERNOON'S SPORT.

PRINCE'S GREAT WELCOME.

A rare meeting held at Happy Valley yesterday afternoon as part of the Prince's programme was a great success. In point of the number of spectators it rivalled the days of the big February race meeting. The rain which had been threatening all morning fortunately held off with the exception of an occasional slight drizzle which was not sufficient to interfere to any degree with the success of the meeting. The arrival of His Royal Highness was awaited with eager anticipation. It was about 4.20 that he made his appearance riding in a motor along the enclosure to the Governor's stand. He came through an avenue of cheering people packed so tightly as to seem a grey lounge suit, repeatedly raised his hat and smiled his acknowledgments. He entered the Governor's stand and the cheering broke out anew as he made his appearance again. Having watched the fine race for the Prince of Wales Stakes, His Royal Highness descended to the enclosure and again to the accompaniment of deafening cheers made a tour of inspection. Gathered around the stairs to the stand were the Stewards of the Hongkong Jockey Club, headed by Sir Paul Chater, the Chairman of the Club.

The course looked very gay with its flags and its big stands draped with bunting. Music was discoursed by the band of the King's Regiment. The racing was very keen and a glance at the cash sweep figures will give an indication of the size of the attendance.

THE WORKERS.

PERSONNEL OF THE COMMITTEE.

That the Prince's visit has passed off with such notable success may largely be attributed to the hard work put in by those who were appointed to the various committees.
Many of them had thankless tasks—
none more so than the invitation committee—but all of them deserve
a very hearty vote of thanks from the community at large.
Mr. Eric Rice, the Governor's private secretary, had perhaps the toughest job of all, as secretary to the executive committee. He did it well, proving himself a capable organiser.

The names of those responsible for the ball arrangements appear elsewhere. The other committees were composed as follows:—

BRINGING UP FATHER.

PAVILION BALL.

A WOMAN'S IMPRESSIONS.

DRESSES DESCRIBED.

One often hears of a State Ball being spoken of as a brilliant function.

The ball given last night by the Hongkong people in honour of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales may not only be thus described, but it was also a most enjoyable affair, with no stiff formality to mar the spirits of those present.

The spirit of enjoyment was rife, to which the surroundings could not but add.

Coming down from the fog enveloped heights one entered Fairyland. Sprinkling red lanterns everywhere, with here and there points of white light, Queen Victoria's statue glittering like a diamond and the gorgeously lighted arch erected by the Indian and Parsee Community surrounded by the huge elephants with their shining eyes. The Law Courts and the Hongkong Club (over whose sacred precincts ladies for once were permitted) were used as cloak rooms and all the carefully thought-out arrangements worked well.

There was a covered entrance leading from the Law Courts to the Prince's Pavilion and also from the Club, but fortunately the elements were kinder and, although at one time there was a very slight drizzle, the night was clearer and it was dry underfoot.

The Pavilion itself shone with softly shaded light. The colour scheme was most effective; rose, gold and primrose lamps bordered with black, no glaring white electric light but every huge silk shade surrounded by four small cones.

The same gold colour, mingled with blue was found in the curtains drawn across the open windows, while the doorways were draped with Union Jacks and white ensigns.

Over the entrance to the Prince's retiring room were the Royal Standard.

Along the pillars red and white bunting was here and there caught up by huge rosettes and gold-tasseled cord and festoons of green leaves hung underneath. In spite of the temperature the leaves which fell from time to time made one think of Christmas decorations, or perhaps it was the cheerful spirit pervading the whole place which was akin to the glow of Christmas-time.

Seats were placed all round the walls and one side were small tables at which supper was served continuously. This left a large clear space for the dancing and there was ample room for the guests present of whom there were about 2,500.

Shortly after nine o'clock a number of people were assembled and the band of the "Renown," together with that of the Hongkong Hotel under Mr. Will Heuser, which did most excellent service, was well under way with an extra wait.

Rumour had it that H.R.H. would not arrive till half past ten but it was not long after ten when the strains of "God save the King" were heard and the Prince entered, looking very young and sun-burnt in evening dress.

H.R.H. is known to be a good dancer and as keen on dancing as he is on all sport and the burning question had been "With whom will the Prince dance?"

Lady Stubbs, who wore pink brocade edged with black was the first to be led out and after that H.R.H. did not return to the dais until his departure but mingled with the crowd in an entirely British and informal manner and, from all appearances, was enjoying himself as much as any one there. As is the case wherever he goes the Prince captivated every heart with his ready smile and his utter lack of "side."

The next one to be honoured was Miss Darby, with whom H.R.H. again danced later in the evening. She was wearing a charming dress of net, with frills shaded from white to pale pink and a wreath of pink leaves in her hair.

H.R.H. then danced with Miss Duff, who wore a pink and white brocade dress. Later Miss Logan, who looked very dainty in primrose tulle, was honoured three times, as also Mrs. Shenton, who had on a dress of powder blue brocade with lace. H.R.H. also danced with Miss Stubbs who wore mauve.

After the seventh dance the skill of the pipes was heard and at the north end of the pavilion many were forming up for the eighteenth reels, whilst there was a crowd of on-lookers.

It came as a pleasant surprise to a number of people that H.R.H. was also taking part. He formed up in an eighteenth with Mrs. Shenton, General and Mrs. Macnaughten, Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland and Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong. The Prince thoroughly entered into the spirit of it and afterwards had a word of praise for the paper.

It was not until a quarter past twelve that word was passed along that H.R.H. who seemed loathe to go, was about to return to the "Renown." When he appeared on the dais a tremendous burst of cheering went up. "God bless the Prince of Wales" was sung and as the Prince left, the strains of "For he's a jolly good fellow" followed him.

After that the guests began to disappear rapidly but it was not until after half past one that the ball was closed.

Amongst the many hundreds present were Commodore and Mrs. Bowden Smith, who wore cornflower blue. Major General Sir John and Lady Fowler, who had on a peacock blue dress, H. H. Mr. Justice Gompertz and Mrs. Gompertz, who was in purple velvet, Sir William and Lady Rees-Davies. The latter had on a black dress, wonderfully embroidered with peacock's feathers and Mrs. Layton wore a beautiful silver grey brocade with a large cerise flower. The Hon. Cland Severn was there and Mrs. Severn who had on a figured silk and lace dress with royal blue girdle.

Mrs. Ram had on a jade green dress, Miss Ram was in white, Mrs. King wore gold and brown and Mrs. Bell Irving a white draped dress. Mrs. Pollock had on pale mauve satin and lace, Mrs. G. M. Dodwell wore a violet. Mrs. Sutherland was in black and white, Mrs. Macnaughten had on pink brocade and red and Mrs. Armstrong black net and sequins. Mrs. Darby wore pink, Mrs. Delacombe was in yellow with large purple flowers and Miss Delacombe was in pink tulle. Mrs. N. L. Smith had on pink and sequins and Mrs. Sayer black and green and Mrs. A. R. Lowe black net. Mrs. Sanders, who was there with Lieut. Colonel Sanders, wore white brocade and her sister, Miss Gib on grey gold brocade. Mrs. Denison was in grey, Miss Denison had on a white brocade dress and Mrs. Hall shimmering grey with a belt of dull purple flowers. Mrs. James was in grey net and gold, Mrs. Tomory wore a tomato frock. Mrs. Havelock Daives in white net with opalescent sequins, Miss Irving in white lace and Miss Harston in pale lilac tulle. Mrs. Hartford had on black net trimmed with Royal blue sequins. Mrs. Tomlinson a gold figured brocade and Mrs. A. B. Stewart was in pink. Mrs. Hornell wore white and Mrs. Bagnall a misty blue dress. Mrs. Olliver was in claret colour. There were many other charming frocks.

Amongst the guests were a number of Indian ladies, also Japanese ladies in native dress, some of whom were busy fox-trotting.

There were 16 dances altogether, a most enjoyable programme.

It has been a memorable night which will live long in the minds of all those who took part in it.

THE PAVILION.

CHARITY BALL TO BE HELD.

Use will be made of the Pavilion on Easter Tuesday. The China Mail is informed that by permission of the Government a charity ball will then be given by the subcommittee on behalf of the dependants of men lost in the H. 42 disaster.

DID YOU LOSE THESE?

The police found in the Pavilion after the Ball last night, two silver purses, one silver cigarette case, one silver scent bottle and a pearl pendant. Owners can recover them on application at Central Station.

The Victoria and Albert Museum has received a gift, through the National Art-Collections Fund, from Mr. Henry Oppenheimer, in the form of an Italian majolica plate (a kind of pottery with opaque glazing) of the finest period. The plate is painted by the master Nicola da Urbino, also known as Nicola Pallipario. The date is probably about 1520-1525.

Captain Henry E. Grace has been selected to succeed Commodore William Bowden Smith C.B.E., as Commodore in Charge at Hongkong, with effect from April 28 next. Commodore Bowden-Smith was appointed to Hongkong, April, 1920, and carried his broad pennant on the "Tamar," depot ship. The new Commodore joined the Royal Navy in January, 1890, took five "firsts" at his examination for lieutenant, which rank he reached in 1896 by special promotion, specialised in gunnery, got the rank of commander in 1906, and captain in the last day of December, 1914. Captain Grace was second in command of the battleship "New Zealand" when the war opened in 1914, and he served with that ship in the Grand Fleet till he was promoted captain, after which he commanded a light cruiser for some time in the North Sea and elsewhere.

HAMEEN.

John Chinaman was sore beset By strange barbarians from the West. Their trade, he wanted none of it, But they, with bayonets, guns and grit. Pressed forth upon their quest.

On Hameen Flat, by river Kong. They did a settlement design. Three furlongs broad by seven long. They got it all for just a song And promises benign.

They blasted rocks, they raised the Flats Above the old highwater-mark; They dredged the channel, where the cats Did gambol once with water-rats We now float 'Cutty Sark.'

They built a modern Western town, Proud contrast to the native lair, With shady lanes and gardens fair And mansions a la millionnaire Thus gained they great renown.

They built a church where pious folks Could leave their souls in praise and prayers; They built The Club where witty jokes And cards and billiards, drinks and smokes Please men of grave affairs.

The built The Band where ladies fair Do haunt their new-washed lingerie, Where 'lovesick swains their loves declare And Taipans sport their sedan-chairs Beneath the banyan-trees.

Great, giant, hoary banyan-tree, Our shade in sun, our shield in gales, In silent, brooding reverie, Still and unmoved, you daily see Unfolded curious tales.

See dudes done up in 'shorts' and stocks, Youth faded, age grown daily young, Grandmothers dressed in Baby-smocks, And girls display, in laughing flocks, Faked charms by river Kong.

See East and West in rivalry Mixed up in one entangled mass, Wealth, waste and pomp and luxury, Despair and toil and drudgery, Deeds great, ambitions cross.

'For East is East and West is West,' And here the train do meet; Here did the white man build his nest, And here he takes his ease and rest, But prays that time be fleet.

A furlong but, and then the East Holds undisputed sway, 'Midst famine, filth and gorgeous feasts, And sing-song girls and shaven priests And flags and banners gay.

The crickets creak, the pigeons coo In Hameen banyan-trees; The band plays yankoo-doodle-doo, A dancing mob sways to and fro Good-bye, dance on in peace. —J. R.

Gorns Peel Off Painlessly

There is Only One Genuine Corn-Peeler—"Gels-It"

There's only one happy way to get rid of any corn or callus, and that is to be able to peel it off painlessly.
"Gels-It" is the only corn remedy in the world that does it

"2 drops of 'Gels-It'—Corn is doomed!"
that way—effectively, thoroughly.
Why get down on the floor, its yourself up into a knot, and have to labor with troublesome plasters, greasy
ointments that rub off, sticky tape,
and knives and scissors when you can peel off your corn or callus in one complete piece, painlessly and surely, with magic simple, easy
"Gels-It." It takes 2 or 3 seconds to apply "Gels-It." You use 2 or 3 drops, and that is all. "Gels-It" does the rest. Get rid of that corn-pain at once, so that you can work and play without corn torture. Be sure to use
"Gels-It." It never fails.

"Gels-It"—the guaranteed, money-back corn-peeler—the only sure way, costs but a trifle at all chemists and stores. Write to E. Lawrence &
Co., Chicago, U. S.
